

Volunteer Graphic Designer

Trellis for Tomorrow delivers experiential programs in organic gardening, environmental stewardship, and food security that provide practical and behavioral life skills for youth and adults. Our aspiration is to foster compassion and resilience in people and inspire them to build sustainable communities.

What Trellis is Looking For in this Volunteer Position:

Are you a professional or amateur graphic designer looking to share your talents? Trellis for Tomorrow is looking for an experienced graphic designer to support our marketing and communication efforts via various platforms, including electronic and print. We have considerable and diverse needs in this area, so the time range could be anywhere from 5-20 hours a month, depending on volunteer availability and project demand. This is a volunteer position that can be done remotely.

What Trellis will Need from this Volunteer:

- Availability to dedicate 4-5 hours per month or to work on a project-based schedule
- Ability to deliver any designs captured in high-quality, digital format to Trellis (Trellis will own the rights to all designs)
